Home canning: Where do I start?

BY BRUCE W. CALVERT/WRITER
Are you planning to try your hand at home canning? It's a great way to preserve your own produce, but don't have where to start? Here are some tips to get you started.
Step 1 Research the process. There are many different types of canning, and it's important to understand the differences between them. Some are easier than others, and some require more equipment.
Step 2 Get the right equipment. You'll need a pressure canner for low-acid foods, a water bath canner for high-acid foods, and a jar lifter. You'll also need jars and lids.
Step 3 Follow the recipe. Canning is a science, and it's important to follow the recipe exactly. Don't alter the recipe, and don't skip any steps.
Step 4 Test your canner. Before you start canning, it's a good idea to test your canner to make sure it's working properly.
Step 5 Start with easy recipes. If you're new to canning, start with simple recipes like salsas, jams, and pickles.
Step 6 Practice makes perfect. Canning is a skill, and it takes time to learn. Don't be discouraged if you don't get it right the first time.

Farmers market finds

THE WEST POINT FARMERS MARKET will hold its 4th Thursday at 101 Highway 412, in the former Ford Center. The market is open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and features a variety of fresh produce, including tomatoes, cucumbers, and leafy greens. There are also vendors selling handmade goods and local crafts. The market is a great place to support local farmers and find fresh, seasonal produce.

Learning to grill from a master: My father

BY NATHAN BAYNES
I've been grilling for as long as I can remember. My father is the master of the grill, and he's taught me everything I know about grilling. He's a true professional, and he's always ready to help me out. He's got a secret recipe for ribs, and he's got a special sauce that he's made for years. He's a real pro, and he's always ready to help me out. He's got a secret recipe for ribs, and he's got a special sauce that he's made for years. #### Fall for comforting, grape-inspired recipes

BY NATHAN BAYNES
As the leaves turn and the weather cools, there's nothing more comforting than a warm, hearty meal. One of the best ways to enjoy the season is with recipes inspired by the flavors of fall. Grapes are a great ingredient to use in a variety of dishes, from soups to salads. They add a touch of sweetness and a hint of acidity, making them a perfect addition to any fall recipe.
